

DANIEL'S SECRET

PROLGUE

Jerusalem, Israel

The year 2000, June 24, 3:18PM

The tractor wove slowly through the cemetery monuments towards the lonely troublesome tombstone. The cemetery proprietor's words were; remove the stone with the nameless message, "Here lies a man who went out of the world without knowing how or why he came into it."

Three workers wrapped the heavy iron chain around the tombstone, and attached the other end to the front loader of the tractor. The driver swiveled his head around to check behind him. The approaching dark clouds indicated they had better work fast before the storm hit. The driver slammed the gear shift into reverse, but before he touched the accelerator it happened. A blinding light, a bolt from the sky. Lightning left a severed glowing red chain on the front loader of what was a tractor, three smoking workers sprawled lifeless on the ground, and an untouched tombstone surrounded by a swirling ground fog.

Thomas Funderburk had a mission to find the final resting place of his famous great grandfather. His worldwide search led him to that same cemetery in Jerusalem with that same unexplainable epitaph that referred to the Creation and the purpose of mankind. Thomas met with his preacher, a priest, and even a Rabbi, but could not find anyone who could satisfy his questions about the epitaph. Thomas didn't sleep well. Did this message have something to do with him?

Several months passed. Thomas heard about a Bible researcher named Daniel Veritas who claimed to have discovered the Secret of the Creation. Thomas contacted the Bible researcher, who at first rejected
